The “school bag” has a color screen and can “hold” all the textbooks that a student may need, says a report in “The Asian Age” newspaper.

The company plans to work closely with the publishers (出版商) of the textbooks so that these books can be supplied on the Internet. What all the students will have to do is to download their textbooks. Making notes and highlighting important parts of a lesson can be done just as students used to have done on their textbooks.
